These hunts take place near Crawford Colorado on public land Forest Service, BLM or Curecanti National Rec Area. Tags are over the counter for an either sex tag at this time. These tags can be purchased at cpwshop.com or can be bought locally when you arrive as long as you have your hunter ed card. Arrival is the afternoon prior to your hunt. You will stay in canvas tents and our cook prepares nice home cooked dinners, sack lunches and a quick continental style breakfast for you each day. These hunts are for the guys who want to experience mountain camping but sleep on a bed have nice meals and a place to shower. We drive to the hunting areas each morning or hike right out of camp depending on where we are hunting. Hunting is done on our National Forest Permit and BLM Permit in unit 63. We ride in 4x4 or side by side to hunt areas, glassing, spotting, calling, sitting wallows or ponds, and stalking in to shooting range. Area elevation is from 10,000 feet being the top to 7500 being the lower end of what we hunt. The terrain is mountainous creek drainages up high with pine and aspen forests. Then the lower elevation has oak brush, berry bushes, juniper and cedar with sage openings. There is terrain that is easy to access on foot and there is back country that is tough vertical country for those that are more able.

Semi Guided Rifle Hunts:

$4500

Semi guided hunts we put you in our base camp that you can drive in to. You stay in our canvas tents with a shower trailer (pending freezing temps). This is located on private land that is surrounded by the Gunnison National Forest. Hunting is done on public land. We have a cook at camp and 1 guide for your group to help you locate game, and to assist in any game retrieval. This is not a fully guided hunt. Our packer will retrieve any elk you kill with our horses if they are in a spot that needs horses and our horses are available. To book this type of hunt you must have a group from 4-6. This is a 5 day hunt with your meals provided. These hunts are for the hunter who can get out and hunt but chooses to use some local knowledge and elk hunting experience to help them out. Semi guided Rifle hunts are only available for 1st and 2nd Rifle. You can bring your atv or side by side on this hunt or your hunting vehicle. Two peoples gear should be able to be packed on one pack horse and a group of 4 people should be able to get their food on 2 horses. Please refer to our Recommended Gear & Meat Packing Agreement. You must be able to take care of yourself and the camp on this hunt. Making a fire in the stove and chopping wood and making kindling are tasks that you must be able to do. If you have never camped before do not consider this package as an option for your hunt. You must be able to problem solve to overcome obstacles that may arise on your hunt. If it snows a bunch you must be able to get the snow off the roof of the tent and away from the sides of the tent. Must be able to break down an animal and get it down to a horse trail for us to get to it with horses. Must have minimal gear very similar to a backpack hunt. Temperatures during Sept and October can drop below freezing and snow/rain can come at any time. This is something that you must prepare for during your drop camp hunt. Success Statistics:

On average we have maintained 60% on shot opportunity on our guided rifle elk hunts.

Archery Guided Elk Hunts we have run about 40-50% shot opportunity.

When coming on a hunt whether its guided, semi-guided, or a drop camp hunt you must understand that hunting elk can be a very challenging task. There are many factors that come into play that can make a hunt better and some can make it much tougher. Weather is the biggest factor along with hunting pressure around us. Cattle can be moved in or out of an area at any given time that can affect how the elk use the areas. We do our best to make adjustments when these things come up. Most people are mindful that these things can come up and are respectful.

Disclosure:

1. It is your responsibility to sight your gun in and check it at a local range if you need to prior to your arrival (Stengals Gun Range). Expect a concrete bench at the range. Bring needed rest if you need to check your gun.
2. Guides drive what they have. That may be a tacoma, 4 runner, suburban, or 4 door truck. Mid size vehicles do the best on our back country roads.
3. Bring a gun that you are going to hunt with that isn't a show piece. Guns are going to get scratched and banged up some, riding in vehicles as well as crawling through some of our thick woods.
4. We have some great cooks and they receive high praise each year. If you have special food needs please communicate with us so we can make sure you needs are taken care of.
5. Guides. Your guide may be a resident of the area and we have some guides that are not residents but are well experienced guides who travel several states guiding from Alaska to Mexico. A guide position with us is a seasonal position so everyone has other jobs and planning and scheduling conflicts come up so some guides are only available for certain seasons. Younger guides have more flexibility with scheduling as most don't have families and will be on the schedule more often. Guides will spend time ahead of your hunt scouting and locating game. Your guide for archery elk will have calling abilities. We don't expect guides to be callers for the rifle seasons. Some will carry a call to stop elk for a shot during the rifle seasons or they will use their voice to stop elk.

6. Your physical ability plays a huge roll in being able to get in and out of certain hunting areas. As seasons progress the elk will seek out the roughest toughest areas to call home. Your inability to get into those areas that can be traversing some steep hillsides up and down can limit your chances for success.
7. Private land access is limited. Some places that we have access to will not have elk on them until certain seasons. Elk move around a lot and will come and go from these properties. Count on your hunt to be on primarily public land.
8. For the most part over the last 16 years we have had great clients who come out and enjoy their time with us and leave as friends. Please be respectful and mindful of the staff and others in camp. If you choose to be a problem in camp we will be asking you to leave. Thank you!
